Our Belief

At Daniels Chapel of the Roses, serving families in need is not just a family business, but a family tradition. Our dedication to the community has spanned four generations and continues to be guided by our commitment to provide professional and compassionate service to those who have lost a loved one. This commitment is the hallmark of who we are as a funeral service provider.

Why Family Owned

As a family owned funeral home, our concern rests with the families that we are privileged to serve and the community of which we are privileged to be a part. While many funeral homes must report to corporate or fraternal headquarters, we report to ourselves, but more importantly, we report directly to you. Our professionally trained directors are certified and/or licensed by the State of California and adhere strictly to those laws which are designed to protect you and your loved one. The decision of who should care for your funeral service and cremation needs is too important to leave up to chance.
